Andover's Ethan Allen mill latest local victim of economic hard times

By ALISON ALOISIO

Fifteen Andover residents are among the 59 employees who will lose their jobs Aug. 28 when the Ethan Allen sawmill in that town closes.

The closure, announced last week, was prompted by the poor economic conditions, a spokesman at the home office in Danbury, Conn. said.

But while workers in Andover have been living with different versions of scaled-back hours for more than a year, "I think we were still shocked," said accounts administrator Barbara Simmons.

She said there have been rumors in past years about possible closures, and there have been other layoffs.

"There have been major layoffs before and things got better," she said. "I think we all felt we would come out of it. But this time, we just didn't pull out of it."

Since the announcement, she said, she hears many employees wondering aloud, "What am I going to do now?"

The mill makes glued furniture parts for Ethan Allen.

Les Otten says he's not taking our support for granted in race for Gov.

By MICHAEL DANIELS

On Monday Les Otten of Greenwood announced he is forming an exploratory committee to consider a run for governor of Maine in 2010, but the following day he told The Citizen he realizes that if he is to succeed, he has work to do right here in his own backyard.

In concluding his announcement Monday, Otten said: "I am thrilled to be taking this first step towards running — as a Republican — for governor of the Great State of Maine. I will be traveling throughout the state this summer listening to the people of Maine and learning what issues affect them in their everyday lives."

But he'll also be talking to folks back home.

"The local community has not seen me as a politician," he said Tuesday, "and I wouldn't expect that they would immediately say, 'Oh well, I'm gonna endorse Les.'"

"So I think I've got just as much work to do in our own community as I have to do

Round Pond Station Court rejects challenge to shoreland decision by G'wood Appeals Board

By MICHAEL DANIELS

An Oxford County Superior Court Justice has ruled in favor of the town of Greenwood, and its Appeals Board, in a case brought by Jonathan Wells, owner of Round Pond Station, a commercial vacation rental located on the pond.

However, in a letter to Town Manager Kim Sparks, town attorney Alan Perry said he expected Wells to appeal the decision.

The area where Round Pond Station is located is in Shoreland Zoning and restricted to "limited residential" use.

But in January of 2007 the Greenwood Planning Board approved (unanimously) a site plan application for the 1.5 acre property, allowing it to operate as a vacation rental accommodating 20 or more people, and rented out for periods as short as two days.

Atop Mt. Washington

Local biologist Ken Hotopp monitors one fluttering sign of global warming

By ALISON ALOISIO

Their young spend the winter under the rocks atop Mt. Washington.

In the summer, the adults take flight for only two or three weeks, and then only during the few sunny, calm hours between frequent winds and rains.

When they're not airborne, they're trying to stay one step ahead of the wolf spiders that hunt them.

They are White Mountain Arctic butterflies, descendants of a species that was more widespread at the end of the last glacial period.

The White Mountain butterflies were separated from their relatives thousands of years ago, as glaciers retreated and forests filled the valleys. Isolated, they developed different color patterns and behaviors.

Despite the harsh alpine conditions in the Presidential Range, the globally-unique Arctic tics continue to live out their two-year life cycle from caterpillar to butterfly.

But the delicate balance that provides them their niche is threatened by global warming and other environmental changes. They are recognized as "sensitive species" by the U.S.

Forest Service and are listed by New Hampshire as "threatened."

Bethel biologist Ken Hotopp is part of a study monitoring how the butterflies are doing. This is the second year he is spending rock-hopping near the summit of Mt. Washington, searching the nooks and crannies and counting butterflies.

Last Thursday, Hotopp and his daughter Alice took advantage of a break in the rainy weather to hunt them.

"The butterflies rely on plants found only in the alpine zone for food (for their caterpillars)

Sheepskin Bog Road — a river ran through it

... so cars couldn't early Sunday morning, when residents along the lower section of the Greenwood dirt road awoke to find an overnight cloud-burst had washed away their access to the outside world — unless they were willing to hoof it or 4-wheel out. But up ahead of these folks, the town Highway Department had, by 7 a.m., already begun filling the 800-foot-long gully, which in places was 10 feet deep, Road Foreman Alan Seames said. Two days and nearly 1500 cubic yards of gravel later the road was reopened. The storm cell that produced this damage was confined to the Locke Mills/Rowe Hill area, where three other roads (Howe Hill, Westleigh and East Twitchell) were also damaged to the point where they had to be closed. All were re-opened by the time The Citizen went to press Wednesday afternoon. Earlier Wednesday, County EMA Director Scott Parker told Greenwood Town Manager Kim Sparks that the damage throughout Oxford County and the rest of the state from June's wet weather was costly enough to qualify for FEMA funding. '09 Trek to brake short of the shore

By TERRY KARKOS.

Organizers behind the 14th annual Androscoggin River Source to the Sea Trek from July 9 through Aug. 23 are breaking from tradition this summer.

Instead of the usual 20-day, 170-mile trip from Lake Umbagog in northwestern Maine through New Hampshire, back into Maine to the Atlantic Ocean at Fort Popham near Bath, this summer's 13-day trek will end in Lisbon, 30 paddling miles from the ocean.

Androscoggin River Watershed Council member Fergus Lea explained why on Tuesday.

"To some extent, it's due to budgetary reasons," he said. Additionally, he said directors have long wanted to bet-

SURVEY FOLLOW-UP

To the Editor:

On behalf of the Bethel Area Non-Profit Task Force, I would like to follow up on the article appearing in the Bethel Citizen a few weeks ago informing your readers about a survey that was to be sent out to a broad group of Bethel area non-profits - in an effort to explore possible collaborations and improved communication between the groups.

We are happy to report that 30 organizations have responded to the initial survey release! It is gratifying to learn that many of the individuals who are involved in a wide variety of our non-profit groups have an interest in learning more about how we potentially can improve the way we deliver our services to the community by exploring new ways of working together.

We are extending the survey deadline to Friday, July 10, for the benefit of those organizations who have not had the opportunity to submit their responses. If any of these groups need us to resend them the link to the electronic survey, please contact the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce office at 824-2282.

The individuals and groups who respond to the survey will receive the compiled results by the end of July. A follow-up meeting of the core task force is planned for August, when the next steps in this process will be solidified.

Thank you for your part in helping us to help each other more effectively serve the Bethel area community!

MOLLYOCKETT DAY ROAD RACE

To the Editor:

The Mollyockett Day Classic Road Race: a five-mile road race, a one-mile fun-run for children 14 and under, and a three-mile walk, is the first event of the town festival, Mollyockett Day, to be held Saturday, July 18. We know our area families and fitness enthusiasts enjoy this event and we encourage everyone to register. This letter is to alert everyone of a time change this year!

Start time this year is 30 minutes earlier than in the past - 8 a.m. children's race, 8:30 a.m. adults' race/walk. Day-of-event registration for all three events will close promptly at 7:30 a.m. to enable correct data input into the timing system. This earlier start will be cooler for the racers and have the awards presentation done in time for all to enjoy the 11 a.m. parade.

We encourage anyone interested in participating in the Mollyockett Day Classic to pre-register. Applications are available at the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce office, or call 824-2282, or register online at www.active.com.

The first 150 entries are guaranteed one of the beautiful commemorative t-shirts. Artwork on the shirt is by local artist, Karen Jordan Paul. This event is made possible with the support of presenting sponsors Kennett Realty and Michael T. Steven & Associates, as well as Pepsi Bottling Group, All Doyles Cleaning Services/Harvest Carpentry, Bennett Automotive, NTL Institute, Mt. Abram Resort, True North Adventureware, and All Sports Events.

SOFTBALL TEAM THANKS

To the Editor:

The Telstar softball team would like to thank the community, parents, friends and classmates for their continued support of the team.

All season long, the fans show up to cheer on the Rebels and it was never more evident than at the two games with Jay High School, the games with Georges Valley (we finally got that monkey off our back) and the Mountain Valley Conference Championship game. The outpouring of support and cheers kept our girls motivated and excited.

At the Western Maine final vs. Georges Valley, the stands and sidelines were filled with Rebel supporters. The State Championship game was a culmination of all our support, especially Mary and Jimmy Merrill for keeping the faith and spirit of "never say die" to the end of the game. The success of our program is greatly helped by the support we continue to receive from all of you.

Thanks for another successful campaign. We will continue again next season.

NOT WHILE THEIR CUBS NEED THEM

To the Editor:

To State Sen. Bruce Bryant: I am writing with regard to the LD241 bill regarding the reduction of bears in Maine. I realize that the bear population, as with most wildlife, needs to be monitored, but not at such a crucial time in their life cycles as this animal.

I do believe in keeping our wildlife population in control, especially now that we humans have infringed on their environments.

But, couldn't we do this at a time when the cubs are not compromised by killing their parents when they are needed, especially the mothers. Baiting them, hiding atop trees and shooting them from above, and who knows what other means, probably a ground trap! There is such a tree-top trap less than one-half mile from where I live off Branch Road in Newry.

Perhaps during the summer months, in a more sportsman-like manner, is the way to monitor their population. I am not a hunter, never have been, but I do love all of nature, the good and the bad.

Twice I have had bears at my home. Once one came up on the deck, took all of my feeders down, and actually backed down the stairs on its stomach while I watched from the window and then took off into the woods by a small pond. It was back the next night just as I was going out to bring in the feeders around seven. I hollered at it, rang a bell and it took off. It did come back a few days later and my neighbor scared it off for good by firing a gun into the air. Both his wife and I were watching as it took off.

The next year a different bear actually came up on the deck and it and I were peeking at each other from the window. He was right next to my back door. This one sort of intrigued me. It would sit at the foot of a pine tree and roll over and hug the tree. All it ever did was eat seed that had spilled on the ground and left in a few days.

Both bears were here in April. I'll keep you posted as to this year.

FREE OUR WEALTH IN MINERALS

To the Editor:

Our financial problems started long before this recent recession; and it'll get worse after the 2010 fy, when state government will have to look deeper for more funding. As I see it, the biggest problem is low incomes for most of the state's work force - keeping the income tax base low. As more and more workers retire and the younger generation has to look elsewhere for good paying jobs, the income tax base keeps getting smaller and smaller. And the only way to generate enough money for the general fund is to raise taxes and cut government spending. But the state can only cut so much before hurting everyone. Not to mention putting such a burden on state workers.

Workers outside of Maine are being paid twice as much, sometimes a great deal more, for the same work that is being done here. Factories and mills from Fort Kent to Kittery have closed. Some because of this recession and some because of cheaper overseas labor. So our young people have to leave Maine to seek employment.

Because of low wages, outside developers are exploiting this state; buying up huge tracts of land which Maine folks can't afford. Let alone the expensive houses they build on the land more often as developments.

I am seriously concerned about the financial crisis of this state and I am worried about the integrity and the way of life here. So in January, I wrote a letter to Governor Baldacci expressing my concerns and offering a viable way out of this crisis. But as yet, he has not replied. The following information was sent in the letter to the Governor:

Maine is extremely rich in mineral resources. But because of DEP's excessive regulations, these resources will never be mined. There are mineral gems in the western mountains of Maine, huge copper, gold and other precious metals - oh yeah, and oil in northern Maine, and off shore oil deposits. In 1988 I talked with Getty's sight engineer at their operations near Pickett Mountain in T6-R6, and I was told that all of the explorations were complete and they were now just waiting for DEP's permit to start the operations. The mining would all be underground and would last for 25 years and for the first 2 1/2 years they would mine only gold and then go after the other precious minerals there. Like huge deposits of copper, molybdenum, lead, nickel, silver and oil. This engineer said he found oil at 1100 feet.

He told me about the huge copper deposit at Bald Mountain west of Ashland and said if a third copper deposit could be found, that a crushing plant would be built in the Ashland-Masardis area near the B&A railroad tracks. Then loaded into rail cars and hauled to either Searsport or Bucksport and loaded onto freighters and shipped to India for processing. Just imagine how this would rejuvenate a struggling railroad and put people back to work.

Since talking with this engineer, Chevron Resources has located the third copper deposit in T8-R3 west of Monticello in Aroostook County. Oil had also been found in Merrill a short distance off Rt. 212 at a depth of 75 feet. Chevron's engineer said they knew there was oil there just by looking at the rock composition in a nearby gravel pit.

In 1990 I found a gold deposit; along with sulfur and puritite that assayed richer than the richest gold mine in the lower 48. I then talked with Chevron Resources, BHP Utah, mining companies in China and South Africa and they all said the same thing; "Until Maine adopts some regulations that we can live with, there'll never be any mining in Maine."

Some time later I was talking with a person from DEP's Presque Isle office and this person said that as long as he had anything to do with it, there would never be any mining in this state. The environmentalists are concerned about using mercury and cyanide in processing the ore and polluting the water. But mercury and cyanide are no longer used. It is now done by using electricity. And besides, remember Getty's engineer said that the ore would be shipped to India for processing.

Mining companies have been able to operate environmentally safe elsewhere and it probably could be done here also.

I have talked with the local representative in the area and after some researching he said that environmentalists had infiltrated every department in the state and that it would be difficult to pass any resolution that would allow mining.

Employment would increase exponentially as the mines were being developed and operated. New plants would have to be built, the railroad would be rejuvenated, roads to build, carpenters would be put to work, as well as new mining operators, equipment operators, truck drivers, geologists, engineers and the list goes on and on. Opening the mines would have a ripple effect across the state, putting people back to work with good paying jobs and a future. They could afford things that those from the outside take for granted that perhaps we here might have considered to be luxuries. We could afford to send our children to college and some of those graduates would come back to Maine to live and work. We could afford health care and health insurance, comfortable housing, a new vehicle, etc. A three-phase electric power line would have to be brought in to mines. Electricians would be put back to work. And best of all, as the incomes got better, Maine's tax base would also get better.

Myself, I would like to see us return to the 50's and 60's when gas was 25 9/10 cents and heating fuel was 17 cents. But we can't go back. But people in this state deserve better than what our last legislature just came up with.

It seems pointless to try and preserve the state so it's pristine to the point where people who helped make life here so attractive to outsiders have to move away to find jobs with better pay. What's more important, preserving this state so it looks like an untouched, unused state park where no one can live? Or maybe DEP working with the mining companies who have interest in this state and making this state once again a working state.

I would like to see a committee formed, not with just legislators and members from DEP, but with some people from the general community to study and investigate some of these rulings that seem so restrictive to the mining companies.

SWIM POND CONGRATULATIONS

To the Editor:

Just a quick note to congratulate all those who made the "Bethel Swim Pond Project" on the North Road possible. It certainly has been a long process from the original idea to the dedication earlier this month, and nature did not help at all in 2007 when the facility was badly damaged. Few communities Bethel's size have been blessed with such a remarkable resource.

Thank you Ernest and Alberta Angevine and all the generous donors who made it all possible. Your names are now on the dedicatory tablet for all to see.

A special thanks is due my fellow Selectman Donald Bennett for his leadership in seeing this project through with all kinds of challenges that might have discouraged a lesser being. At the dedication, even the weather cooperated beautifully. What a great way to begin the official "life" of another reason why we live in Bethel!

THANKS FROM REPUBLICANS

To the Editor:

I would like to thank everyone who helped make the Oxford County Republican Yard Sale on June 13, a huge success. A special thank you goes out to all who donated goods for the sale and a very, very special thank you to George and Thelma Hooper for making their picture-perfect farm in Bryant Pond available for the event.

The weather leading up to and immediately following the yard sale was questionable, but that didn't dampen the spirit of the volunteers who helped sort, price, set up, and sell all of the great "stuff" that was donated. I deeply appreciate the time and effort put into the event by Pilar Bates, Loretta Mikols, George and Thelma Hooper, Lally Faulkner, Lynn Hamper, Paula Smith, Bill Seames, Judy Bennett, Nom and Joan Putnam, Ruth Feeney, and Arlan and Ellie Jodrey. If I have forgotten anyone, please accept my apology and know that I am equally grateful for your help.

Of course, I would be remiss if I did not thank everyone who stopped by to purchase some of the great items we had to sell. Due to your support and generosity we are planning to make the yard sale an annual event.

Trek

ter link the event with ongoing festivities along the river, rather than just paddling through them.

"We want to try to bring more water, if you will, or river focus, to some of the celebrations that occur up and down the river," Lea said.

So, the council partnered with New Hampshire's Northern Forest Heritage Park, the Lewiston-Auburn Balloon Festival, the paper-making museum in Livermore Falls, the Rumford Parks and Recreation program, the Androscoggin Land Trust and Lake Umbagog National Wildlife Refuge.

"We planned a paddling day although it didn't work out earlier when we were getting trek information out — down in the Brunswick area," Lea said. "We certainly didn't want to slight them."

A Brunswick-area paddle could happen later this fall if the council's budget can accommodate it, Lea said.

This summer's trek will begin with the Shelburne, N.H., to Gilead section on Thursday, July 9. The Gilead to Bethel paddle is Friday, July 10, followed by the Hanover to Rumford leg on Saturday, July 11.

New this year in the Hanover to Rumford stretch is a canoe and kayak race hosted by the Rumford Parks and Recreation program. Like the family-oriented trek, the race is free and open to the public. The race involves 10 miles of downstream paddling in various categories.

Registration starts at 9:30 a.m. at the Hanover public boat launch on Route 2 behind the Town Office.

A shuttle service will be provided. The race will end with an awards ceremony and barbecue.

Maine Handicapped Skiing Paddling Day is the Bethel to Hanover leg on Sunday, July 12, which will be followed on Monday, July 13, by the Mexico to Dixfield section.

The trek resumes on Saturday, July 25, with the Gulf Island Pond Paddle and Androscoggin Land Trust picnic in Turner. A round-trip paddle to Rancourt Preserve with the trust on Sunday, July 26, in Auburn will round out the month.

The trek flips back to New Hampshire on Friday, Aug. 7, for a morning paddle of the section from 13-Mile Wood to Pontook Dam. New that day is an evening paddle called "Full-Moon Owl Prowl" from the refuge to Errol, N.H.

That will be followed by the Bofinger to Berlin section on Saturday, Aug. 8, and the Northern Forest Heritage Park's River Day race.

Sunday, Aug. 9, will end the New Hampshire stretch with a paddle from Errol to Seven Islands Bridge.

Back in Maine on Friday, Aug. 14, the Jay to Livermore Falls stretch will be paddled.

The trek's remaining two days are Saturday, Aug. 22, which includes an On-Water Paddling Parade during the Great Falls Balloon Festival in Auburn and Lewiston, and Sunday, Aug. 23, the Durham to Lisbon paddle.

"We kept the 'trek' name because next year is our 15th annual and we would like to raise enough money to do the whole trip next year," Lea said.

For more information, contact trek coordinator Barbara Barrett at 527-2163 or trek@androscogginwatershed.org or on the web at androscogginriver.net. Preregistration is strongly encouraged.

Hiker rescued from Grafton

GRAFTON—Search and rescue crews from Newry and Mahosuc Rescue carried an injured hiker down from the Notch Trail Monday night. The unidentified hiker, a woman, had injured her ankle. She notified game wardens of her situation through an emergency beacon she was carrying. Bob Baribeau of Mahosuc Rescue said the carry-out was made more challenging by high water with fast-running currents in three brooks the crews needed to cross. Rescuers strung hand lines to assist in the crossings, he said.

Willard places second in chase

EUGENE, Ore.—Greenwood native Anna Willard placed second Sunday in the women's steeplechase at the U.S. track and field championships. Jennifer Barringer easily won the 3,000-meter competition. Barringer, the American record holder, ran the event in nine minutes, 29.38 seconds, well ahead of Willard and Bridget Franek, who finished third. Willard, who competed in the event in last year's Olympics in China, finished in 9:35.01, and Franek in 9:36.74. In the preliminary round Friday night, Nicole Bush took a spill after hurdling the water barrier and fractured her right foot. It was later determined the barrier was set as many as six inches too high, perhaps at the men's level. The barrier is at 36 inches for the men and 30 inches for the women.

Mill

First established in 1953 as Andover Wood Products, it was taken over by Ethan Allen in 1973.

Simmons has worked at the mill for a total of 26 years. She said she is of an age that she could retire, "but I didn't want to for a couple of years. Still, I'm better off than some."

She said several workers have more than 40 years with the mill, and a large proportion of other employees have been there for many years.

Other area towns will also be hit by the closing, including: Rumford, 17 employees; Mexico, 10; Roxbury, 6; Peru, 6; Bryant Pond, 2; Farmington, 1; and Buckfield, 1.

In addition to the mill workers themselves, said Simmons, between 100 and 125 area truckers/loggers have brought logs to the mill in recent years.

The closure will also affect the town's future finances, she said.

While the mill owner would still pay property taxes on the building and land, "almost half of what we pay in taxes is on personal property," she said.

Last year, she said, the mill paid a total of approximately $77,000 in taxes.

The personal property includes equipment and machinery that would likely be transferred to other locations or sold, she said. It is valued at about $3.3 million, said Simmons.

Other job options, severance pay

She also said EA "has really been working with employees to help them any way they can."

For example, she said, during the recent periods of cut-back hours, the company has preserved workers' health benefits.

They will also receive a generous severance package, she said— one week for every full year worked, up to 20 years.

The future of the mill property itself is uncertain, she said, but workers hope another company will purchase it and keep it running, Simmons said.

David Callen, EA vice president of finance, said from the Danbury office Monday that his company intends to market the property, "but it's too early to have any interest."

Simmons said the mill has been contacted by two other area wood products companies, the Irving Co. and Saunders Brothers, who encouraged EA employees to apply there for possible positions.

A press release from the company last week said the Andover mill would be consolidated with another company mill in Beecher Falls, Vt.

EA will also consolidate machining, assembly and finishing operations from the Beecher Falls plant to one in Orleans, Vt.

Ethan Allen's third-quarter sales and earnings report stated that the company's retail division delivered sales were down 41.8 percent compared to the same quarter last year.

Appeal

That approval was a reversal of the Planning Board's earlier opposition to the uses to which the property, a former one-family shorefront camp, was being put — and it came in spite of the protests of neighbors, who complained of noise, traffic and trash generated by the commercial operation.

One of those neighbors, William Kaplan, took the matter to the town Board of Appeals, which in September of 2007 overturned the Planning Board's approval.

In its own conclusion, the Appeals Board wrote that the approval was "clearly contrary" to the terms of the town's Shoreland Zoning Ordinance, "in that it allowed a commercial enterprise to operate in a Limited Residential District."

Speaking after the decision, Appeals Board Chairman Cathy Newell put the crux of the matter succinctly.

"It's not a camp. It's not a single-family thing, Newell said. "It's a lodging establishment."

In a decision late last month, Justice Roland A. Cole agreed.

"The Property is Zoned Limited Residential. The facts are undisputed," Justice Cole wrote, that the property's former owners used it "primarily as a vacation property for their family's use. It is further undisputed that Wells purchased the Property in 2000 and intended it to become a year-round rental property. As such, the crux of this case centers on whether Wells' use of the Property as a year-round rental converted the Property from a 'residential dwelling unit' to a commercial use."

And, the justice concluded, it did. He ruled to uphold the Appeal Board decision.

Contacted by The Citizen Wednesday, Wells said an appeal of the decision was being filed that day.

Round Pond Station is one of four similar properties owned by Wells, including one on Lake Christopher in Bryant Pond.

outside the community, because it's a different job for me. It's nothing that I've done before. I feel like I need to earn the support of everybody locally and I certainly can't take it for granted."

If the local community has not known him as a politician, Otten said, it has known him in many other roles, over many years.

The first was as the "from away," but hands-on, manager of Sunday River Ski Area.

"People have known me as the guy that used to sit up in the lift shack on top of Pullman-Berry chair on a Saturday and squeeze a grease gun and try to make the lift go around all day in a busy winter."

"That lift got built in the '69-'70 year and ran really for the first full season in '71-'72 season."

"I came in '72, and the lift had lots of problems. My introduction to being the manager at Sunday River was the unglamorous job of sitting up there with a grease gun, because it was my turn to keep greasing the bearings so the lift would run."

Other public roles, he recalled, included "Flipping chicken at the Rotary chicken barbeques 25-30 years ago on the Bethel Common, being the moderator of the Newry town meetings, being the guy that coached most of the people that are now 30 years old in baseball."

Learning from mistakes

The first major hurdle Otten will have to clear in his run for the Blaine House is the Republican Primary, in June 2010.

"If I follow the plan I'm on, I'll continue with the exploratory committee until September," he said.

"In the meantime I'll try to build support. In the fall I'll announce the permanent chairs of the different committees: finance, field, get out to vote, treasurer and such."

At that point, he said, "I'll have the rest of my team put together. I'll be able to be really specific about policies and platform items for me."

"And I'll be in a position that I'm ready to debate the other candidates and have spent time with enough of the people in the state of Maine to have a good idea that what I represent is what they want and they agree with."

"I think there is a lot of learning that needs to go into a campaign, and I think exploratory committees, when used properly, form a basis for a very strong campaign going forward."

"I mean there's always the possibility that the exploratory committee comes to the conclusion that this doesn't work," he said.

"But for the most part it's a matter learning from history and watching what others have done."

"A well-run exploratory committee, one that is financed well, learns from its mistakes before it kicks into high gear," Otten said.

Butterflies

the alpine zone for food (for their caterpillars) and nectar (for the adults)," said Hotopp. "This zone is not large, only about 2,000 acres above treeline between Mt. Madison on the north to Mt. Eisenhower on the south."

The caterpillars feed on Bigelow sedges. Past climatic warming trends have shrunk their habitat as trees have replaced the sedges.

"[The butterflies] can inform us about adaptation and evolution, and they can tell us about how their environment is changing," said Hotopp. "We need to learn more about why and how they use their habitat, avoid predators, and find mates. For example, what exactly is going on under those rock piles where the Arctic congregates?"

"And there will be a great deal of analysis, looking at weather patterns, habitat, and population trends."

Weather information is readily available for Hotopp's research. Only a few hundred yards away sits the Mt. Washington Observatory, which constantly records a wide range of data.

Cooperative weather

On Thursday, winds at the 6,000-foot summit were relatively light and temperatures mild. Although mostly obscured by clouds, the mountain also experienced occasional breaks of sunshine.

That was when the Arctic butterflies took flight from the rocks, flitting low to the ground and occasionally chasing each other.

When they land, they are difficult to see. The insects' mottled brown color blends well with the granite rocks and lichens that grow on them.

To count butterflies, the Hotopps choose a line, or transect. Then, one several yards behind the other, they walk slowly, watching.

On this day the father-daughter team find one to three butterflies each in the two areas they cover.

"Our research has several different parts and phases," said Ken. "We need to establish the best techniques to monitor the butterflies, so that we can see if population changes are happening."

At mid-afternoon, their count is finally cut short by a rainstorm.

Hotopp also studies another species, the White Mountain Fritillary, which will be active later in the summer.

He and other researchers don't yet know what plant serves as host for the Fritillary. It's a mystery they hope to solve.

"We also need to learn more about [both species'] ecology, so we know why population changes may be occurring," he said.

The Way I See It

by Sharon Bouchard

My friend Lesley and I were chatting recently as friends are apt to do. We covered a multitude of things from world issues to not having the time to do the things we'd like to do.

"Don't get me wrong," said Lesley. "I love my husband and family, but I wish they would all go away for a week just so I can get caught up on all the paperwork I have to do."

"I know exactly what you mean," I responded. "If I could have a full week without my husband and no interruptions, I think I could actually get caught up on all my household work and for once have a clean house."

We both sighed over such fantasy. And then we both sighed again as we wondered just when did our fantasies become so mundane?

Later that day I was in a bank and I overheard a couple of the 20-something tellers talking. "My dream is to spend a week alone with my husband on a tropical island. No kids, no telephone. Just Bob and me, the sea and the surf," said one starry-eyed teller.

"That would be wonderful," responded the other teller. "But, I'd like a week with unlimited funds to go shopping in Boston or New York."

I'm sure that once upon a time I had fantasies of romance in exotic places or whirlwind shopping sprees and now I just want to clean my house. What on earth has happened to me?

I guess my fantasies and priorities have changed a great deal over the years. Now I wonder if I have become old and boring or if the realities of life have slapped me around for so many years that I've become simple minded.

And then we both sighed again as we wondered just when did our fantasies become so mundane?

Being simple minded isn't all that bad though. I remember many years ago being very pleased with myself and quite excited because I saved enough money to buy a really nice dress that I wanted. The other day I did a happy dance because I managed to unclog the kitchen sink. Same pleasure, but a lot less expensive.

My husband and I used to talk about how nice it would be to go to New York and see an honest-to-goodness Broadway play. Now we're both pretty happy when we see a movie that we both enjoyed.

When my kids were little I used to love going through various cookbooks and creating interesting gourmet meals. For the kids I would make desserts worthy of a picture in Better Homes and Gardens. Now I'm quite content to microwave leftover macaroni and cheese and have a candy bar for dessert.

Whenever my husband and I see a television commercial for a weekend in Las Vegas, Henry will ask if Vegas holds any interest for me. I always say no and then we'll get a few scratch tickets and hope to win more than the price of the tickets.

Boy, I guess I really am getting old and boring. It's a pretty sad commentary when I've reached the point in my life when a couple of DVD movies hold more interest for me than a Vegas weekend or a romantic vacation on a tropical island.

I think I should start working on more interesting fantasies and doing more interesting things. But still, the way I see it a full week without my husband and no interruptions to clean my house would be like a dream come true. Either that or winning the services of a cleaning company to come in while my husband and I were on a romantic vacation on a tropical island.

There are only five weekends left before the annual Bethel History Festival called Sudbury Canada Days will be here. This is the time when all the museum's exhibits come to life. Molly Ockett heals hemorrhoids with her special birch bark and beeswax treatment. Tramps hop off freight cars and wander into town for a night's lodging at the Bethel Lockup. Visitors can taste the same kind of baked beans that men in log-driving crews were served at the river driver's camp pitched where Davis Park is today. I am sure that a number of curious townspeople got a free sample of what was to be served that night.

Last Friday, Ross Timberlake and Rosabelle Tift met with Stan Howe at the Bethel Historical Society to go over plans for a new addition to this year's Sudbury Canada Days program. Bethel Performing Arts Project will put on a Saturday afternoon series of five one-act, twenty-minute dramas on Main Street porches. (Like what happens when your Main Street residence is declared "Commercial Only" and the planning board rules that you have to leave.) The plays will start at Mitzie Naples's porch at her home next to Philbrook Place and then move to Café DiCocoa. Next stage will be the porch at Linda Clifford's Scottish and Irish Merchant. Karen Mohr's porch in the former Dr. Tibbetts' home will be the scene of the fourth play and the tour will end at Stan Howe's front porch on Broad Street. Each of the five "stages" has an interesting history, which fits well into the history theme of Sudbury Canada Days. Ross said that he plans to have brochures produced, which will be handed out to the public in advance and during the day.

Sunday afternoon the Hale and Farewell reception hosted by the Bethel Selectmen at Stan Howe's home to honor departing Scott Cole and welcome arriving Jim Doar with his family had to move from the host's porch to his barn due to you know what. I am sure many found the barn to be much more interesting than the porch. Strawberry shortcake, cake and whipped cream and homemade fruit punch more than offset the dreary weather.

Golf and wedding receptions seemed to be the main attraction at the Bethel Inn last week. The Garron Golf Group of 50 people and the Kreatz Golf Group of a dozen spent the weekend at the inn. The Prentice-Harris wedding party enjoyed the inn's facilities and service for their big event. The principals were seen practicing their steps at the gazebo — in between rain showers.

Monday, the Bethel Inn Resort's Junior Golf Clinic for 32 aspiring golfers ages 7-12 who live in the Bethel area got off to an early start. The young golfers are divided into four groups with a pro for each group. Head Pro, Mark Mallory, steers the clinic though daily lessons which last from 9 a.m. to noon, Monday through Friday.

The student golfers' week on the course will include instruction in putting, chipping and full swing with irons and woods. In addition to golf etiquette and the rules of golf, good sportsmanship is emphasized. A clinic for teenage golfers 13-17 years old will begin July 6.

Sunday afternoon this year's participants in the Bethel Camp for the Arts were checking in at Gould Academy. This program runs two, two-week sessions at the academy. A third session of four weeks is also scheduled — a joining of the two shorter sessions. Besides offering an extensive visual arts program, their Website page of frequently asked questions says they also have high-quality programs in dance, theater, culinary arts, and technology, in addition to the fun things done at traditional summer camps. One set of rules that should set well with senior citizens is no phone calls, no cell phones and campers are encouraged to write home at least twice a week.

When not in their summer residence at Gould, the Bethel Camp for the Arts is headquartered in Boca Raton, Fla. The Maine Arts Camp Website is <http://www.maineartscamp.com/>.

At Sunday River Ski Resort, Friday was their opening day for scenic rides to North Peak in the new Chondolas or in traditional four-seat chairs. Also new this year will be eating at the top. The North Peak restaurant will be open for hamburger-style meals.

We thoroughly enjoyed our scenic rides last year on the North Peak chair lift. It seemed very popular with the hiking and mountain bike gang. Unfortunately, threats of thunderstorms kept the lift from operating when I was there Saturday. For do-it-yourself snacks and lunches, the Mountain Grocer store at South Ridge will be open daily from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Wednesday through Sunday. The scenic rides will run Friday, Saturday and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Bethel Rotary Club held their annual Summer Auction and Tent Sale at Telstar on Saturday. Four tents worth of treasures were ready to be picked over and hopefully sold. At 6:30 p.m. the auction kicked off in the school's cafeteria. During the touchy-feely preview period it looked like about forty potential bidders were in the hall. Summer visitors Tom and Melinda Remington looked like they were ready to participate. Classmate Arnold Jordan was on hand.

Two items that I thought would be quick sells were an EZ Weaver loom and a look-alike Barbie doll collection with all the trimmings. For anyone wanting to have a coastal artifact for decoration, an authentic looking lobster trap was in the collection of goods.

At Holden Hall, Gould Academy, repair work on the student living room's fireplace chimney was under-way. The job is being done by Andover Masonry.

Repairs and remodeling of one of Broad Street's well-known historic homes is also under way. The building involved is the house known as the Hammons-Rowe-Upson house opposite the Bethel Inn's Pines guest house. In the 1917 era at the Bethel Inn this house was referred to as one of the cottages.

Thursday, the Sun Journal ran an article about a Safe Walk to School grant for Rumford. According to the story, Rumford had been notified of an $80,000 grant from the Maine Department of Transportation to improve pedestrian safety along Essex, Oxford and Maine avenues.

WIGHT LEAVES FOR IRAQ—Specialist Kevin Wight of Newry, U.S. Army Reserves, left Saturday with the 619th Transportation Co. for a year's deployment in Iraq. Wight took his basic training between his junior and senior years at Telstar High School, graduating in 2007. The 619th will be in New Jersey for three weeks for further training before going to Iraq. Last Wednesday, more than 100 family and friends wished him well at a potluck supper at the Bear River Grange in Newry. He is pictured here with his grandparents, Shirley Staples and Nancy and John Wight. Wight is also shown in uniform just before leaving home Saturday.

This report illustrates how other towns are benefiting from the same grant program.

We have seen a noticeable increase in the number of wood chip haulers going by our house on the way to Rumford. Has NewPage seen an increase in paper orders? Another resident of the Route 2 chip hauling corridor recently commented on the increase in traffic noise from these big guys.

an annual get-together of the 1997 travel group that went to China to meet their new children. That was the year Caili became an official member of the Inman family. The gathering was at Lake Raystown Resort, and eight of the original eleven families were able to be there, with folks coming from such disparate places as Brooklyn, Minn., W.Va., N.J., and of course, Maine.

According to Gary, the weather cooperated, with rain clearing early on Saturday, and Sunday being quite lovely. Four of the eight teenagers had younger siblings with them so there were twelve children in all, enjoying the water park, texting each other, and generally having fun.

This event happens every year, always at a different location (it was in Bethel four years ago). I forget which Russian writer said something about happy families all being happy in the same way. This particular group was very happy to be together with each other.

A reminder that Music Without Borders has started this week at Gould Academy, with at least three piano recitals each week. I heard three of Ms. Poddubnaya's students playing live on MPBN radio last Thursday, and they were terrific! The dates of performances are Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday, and Saturday each week, at 7:30 p.m. in the Trustees Auditorium in the McLaughlin Science Building on the Gould campus. Go to www.gouldacademy.org for details or changes.

On Saturday, July 11, all friends of the late Joe Gable are invited to the back pasture at 853 Flat Road at 1 p.m. for a celebration of Joe's life. There will be a reception afterward to which all those present are also invited.

Earlier this year, on May 18, a service was held in Marietta, Ga., Joe's birthplace. Part of his ashes was buried there in a pre-civil war cemetery at St. James Episcopal Church. The church and cemetery are in the historic district, just one block from the home that Joe and Joan occupied before their retirement to Maine. It is also across the street from Marietta High School, from which Joe, his siblings, his wife, Joan; and daughter, Amanda, all graduated. So, in a sense, a part of Joe has gone "home."

Also buried in this historic cemetery are Joe's brother, Father Martin Dewey Gable, an Episcopal priest; his sister, Martha Lou Dennington, and a number of other family members. Nearby is a marble statue of a seated girl, and the legend is that if one walks around her three times at midnight on Halloween, tears will fall from her eyes.

A Korean War veteran, Joe will be remembered here for his love of animals, for his driving his horse and buggy down the Flat Road, for his appearance in "The Twelve Dogs of Christmas," and for his gentle, loving nature. Before he died, he particularly requested that the remainder of his ashes be scattered on the grounds of his beloved "Winds of Bad Mountain Farm" here in Maine.

Hope to hear from you about whatever floats your boat (no reference to arks or flooding intended). Reach me at dhoeh@magalink.net or 836-3011.

Planning Board members Joe Bernier, Rose Stevens, Bob Brown and Diane Williamson elected Joe Bernier as chairman and Bob Brown as secretary. They changed their workshop meetings to begin at 6:30, followed by a regular meeting at 7 p.m. on the last Friday of each month. Keith Leo received a permit for a garage and Rick Angevine received a permit for a camp.

Seven voters attended the Town Meeting on Thursday. All eight articles on the town warrant were accepted.

About 3 on Friday we had hail the size of pencil erasers. Two thousand feet from us, at the Bernier's, they had heavy rain.

The Library will open on July 8. Children's story hour will be each Wednesday from 1 to 2 p.m. The library will remain open until 4 p.m. On Saturdays, the library will be open from 9 to noon. This schedule will last until it gets too cold in there to hold hours.

Gilead

by Lin Chapman

Is there ever going to be a day without rain? Hopefully, the summer is not going to continue like this. It would be nice to have a few sunny days in a row.

My brother, Steve McLain, got to spend his birthday on Saturday traveling around to the four Gilead cemeteries. The Gilead Historical Society had a chance to get some help to put the signs out. Hugh Chapman, Steve McLain and Brad McLain tackled the job. They enlisted Brad's help since he digs a great post hole! Carole Mason and I had the hardest job. We had to make sure the sign was in the right place and straight. The signs look great!

The idea of signs for the cemeteries came about when last year's publication "The Cemeteries of Gilead, Maine" by Hugh and Linsley Chapman was completed for the Gilead Historical Society. The Society decided to use the money from the sale of the book to purchase these signs. Enough books were sold and the signs were ordered. The books are still selling, and there are copies left, and those proceeds will go into the building fund.

Wayne Taylor and Linda Smith were married last weekend, Saturday, June 20. Alicia McLean and Wayne Taylor, Jr. stood up with them. Joe and Dona Taylor hosted a reception for them after the ceremony, which was held at the swinging bridge on Wild River. There were about 40 friends and family present. They wanted to pass on a big thank you for the great time and to let everyone know that they will remember it always.

Our grandchildren, William and Annie Chapman, have been spending the past week with Tim, Michele, Ajay and Sidney in Gorham, and have stopped by to visit us a couple of times.

Gilead Town Office

Alicia McLean was appointed by the Selectmen and sworn in by Linsley Chapman, Town Clerk, as the Second Administrative Assistant at the last Selectmen's Meeting that was held on June 24. Alicia will be preparing the agenda and minutes for the meetings. She will also be handling the bills, preparing the Treasurer's warrants and delivering payroll information to the Treasurer.

Other business discussed: Work on Rapid Renewal for vehicle registrations will be available in the near future. Appointments were signed. Abatements were looked at.

Gilead Historical Society
On Friends and Family Day there was a Guess How Many Jelly Beans are in the Jar contest. There were three jars and the winners were Keith Cox, Sharon Leighton and Amber Tyler. The first-place winners of the Skillet Toss were as follows: Children's, Kaiya Corriveau; Women's, Seneca Corriveau; Men's, Jessie Daniels.

Locke Mills

by Lorraine Larson

I am starting early with my news this week. It takes a lot longer than I think it should, but then what doesn't these days. I find that even getting dressed in the morning takes longer, to say nothing of the fact that the cat has to be fed FIRST THING and the dog has to be let out. Usually, in spite of the italics in my column and in her voice, the cat has to wait a bit while Chloe gets let out. I don't actually know why the cat is so impatient. Usually when she gets her food she sniffs at it, and then delicately gives it a lap and then turns up her nose and walks away. Of course, if I could afford the really expensive stuff, she would eat that; but, as my old granny used to say, "you can't have champagne on a beer pocketbook," so she gets the common stuff.

I can't believe how much

KEEPING THE TRAILS CLEAN—The Woodstock ATV club recently had a clean-up ride on the Concord Pond/Shag Pond Road. Many showed up and cleaned much of the road. Among some of the items found were eight cans of latex paint, household trash, as well as 9 tires and a mattress. The club is not only committed to safe riding but also to caring for the land on which it rides, according to members. Some members who participated in the cleaning ride include: Mike and Missy Patneade, Jeff Barker, Dan Skidgell, Andy Freeman, Dan Dolloff, Linda Allen, Josanne Dolloff, Heidi Dolloff, Ben Dolloff, Becca Dolloff, Rachel Dolloff, Scott Godbois, Stacey Dolloff, Deanna Dolloff, Janis Dolloff, Bill Waite. For more information on ATV safety courses or to become a member, call Mike Patneade, 364-0982 (Trailmaster) or Bill Waite, 364-3275.

rain we got last week. I have a large bucket that holds about 40 or more pounds of dry weight that was completely empty when I turned it upright and set it out near the steps. The next morning it was completely full of water. It filled faster than the leak in my faucet fills up a container and I thought that fills fast enough. I have got to get up my courage and shut off the water and take that faucet apart and put a new O-ring in it along with the one in my kitchen, might as well get both done while I am at it. The problem is that it means that Ralph has to come down and get me and the old ones so I will get the right size, and then bring me back, which is a pain for him to have to make two trips. Not that he complains, at least not to me, but I don't like to have to add more miles for him. I am sure he gets enough driving from driving the taxi, when it is busy that is. Since Bethel did not have one for a long time people tend to forget it's there, if they even know.

Debbie Brown kinda gets amused at my putting my progress with the computer game in the paper, but I figure it doesn't hurt to let people know how addictive it is. They might decide it is not worth it to put it on their computer if they ever are tempted to do it. I am up to level 9, game 7, and I am not sure if I want to go any farther than that. It is getting so every time I close my eyes I see colored balls going around and around behind my eyes and I can do without that. Besides, when I make a mistake I get angry and I do not want to encourage that kind of behavior in myself. There is enough anger in this world already.

I get amused at Rocky Graham's problems with the computer, not that I want her to have problems, mind, but it is nice to know that I have company while I am having a few words to say to mine. I try to keep them sweet as one of my relatives says that if you want the dog, don't call the cat, so if I want good behavior I guess that means that I encourage, not put down even such inanimate things as a computer. I guess one calls them inanimate, sometimes I am not sure! Last week's news took over 20 minutes to be sent out of the outbox and then I did not find out until next day, in spite of my waiting to see if anything was wrong and it would get sent back, that actually I had made a mistake in the address. The result was that I had no column. I am not going to wait until the last minute this week!

Our pastor has just gotten back from his vacation and now he's rested up, we are having a whole week of special meetings. By the time you read this they will be over but the Lord family is coming in for the weekend and they are traveling is tiring especially if one is not used to it.

Andover

by Melinda Averill

Hello Andover friends, it's hard to believe that this weekend is the fourth of July. Hopefully the rain is going to stop. There will be fireworks in Bethel on Saturday evening, I know that a lot of people from Andover go out to see them. Also Errol, N.H. is having them Saturday at dusk.

I'm sure that most of you have heard the sad news for Andover last week - that the Ethan Allan Mill in town will be closing. Employees have about 60 days left. There are approximately 15 Andover families that work at the mill. Supposedly there are a couple of local mills, (one in Dixfield) had said that they could hire some of the displaced workers. Our town is going to be greatly affected by this loss. Many families have grown up working there.

Well, the Telstar girls softball team finally played its state game with Calais, which was delayed three times due to the rain. Lots of fans traveled to Brewer on Wednesday to watch the team play. Although they ended up with a 8-6 loss, the girls did a fine job, and chances are they will be just as dominant next year. The Telstar team is well coached by Jim Lunney, Rob James and Mark Kenney. Two seniors played in their last game-Candace Hall and Whitney Mills.

The following Andover students attending Mountain Valley made the honor roll for the last semester - high honors - Izaak Mills, honors-freshman - Karissah Anastasio.

Please keep Betty Moore and her family in your prayers. Betty spent a couple of days last week in the hospital with pneumonia.

Mark your calendars for July 18th. Upton is having a Fun Day with a reunion of all those who attended the Upton school, a flower show, ladies aid sale etc.

As you may have heard, the Selectmen are going to meet bi-weekly for the regular Tuesday Selectmen's meeting. On the off-weeks, they will hold workshops, from 3-5 p.m. at the town office. These workshops are open to the public. The purpose of the workshops is to allow the Selectmen time to work on upcoming projects. This schedule is for a trial basis only. If you have any comments or concerns, you may contact the office at 392-3302.

The schedule for the next couple of weeks is as follows: Tuesday July 7th-Selectmen's Meeting at 7 p.m. at the town Hall. Tuesday July 14th, workshop at 3 p.m. at the town office.

The Andover Library is having a summer reading program starting in July. Children will need to read a certain amount of time each week and keep a record of it. Sign-up at the Library. It is open Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday from 1-4:30 p.m., and also on Thursday evening from 6-8 p.m.

Enjoy the fourth of July!

The first indigo bunting was at a feeder last week.

Such a beautiful bird but it didn't stay long enough. It has been interesting watching a male hairy woodpecker feed one the same size as it is. I wonder what happened to the mother.

It was a busy week with people visiting and dining out several times. Janis Cronin drove out for a lovely visit and then took me to Pat's Pizzeria for a great lunch. We saw several people while there. After lunch Janis drove me home and then headed to the Veteran's Home in South Paris to see her dad, Lee Swan. Janis is back in Zephyrhills, Fla. now and hopefully not getting all the rain that we are.

Susan Kilduff from Salisbury, Mass. Drove up for the weekend. We had a great time together. Susan did lots of Trudy type things which helped me a great deal. We drove to Bethel for coffee with Mark on Saturday and then headed for lunch at Northlands Dairy and some shopping at Wal-Mart in Berlin. I can't remember if I ever worked out in the rain, but it didn't deter Susan so I joined her outdoors before she left on Sunday. We covered lots of rain-soaked plants and emptied the ones we could. Then we took nails out of the wood holding a plastic protector for the double doors going into the living room. It was sad to see her leave as we enjoyed our time together.

Claire and Cassidy Webster still have home grown chicken eggs for sale at the price of $3.50 a dozen at the BRTP. Give the Post a call at 824-2327 for information.

The Newry Town Office will be closed on Monday, July 6th.

The People in Action's Variety Show on Saturday, July 11, will be held at the Andover Congregational Church instead of the Town Hall. Starting time is still 7 p.m. All proceeds from the show will go to help the Andover Food Pantry.

The Town of Andover received some very discouraging news this week. Ethan Allen will close for good the last week of August. This will put over 50 people out of work, and really affect everyone in town.

Why fights start: A man bought his mother-in-law a cemetery plot for her Christmas present. The next year he didn't buy her a present, and when she asked him why, he said "why should I, you haven't used the one I gave you last year." And that's

DBA:Visible Changes

Paula Lee's "Visible Changes" hair salon has undergone its own visible change. The business has moved to 289 South Main St. in Andover, .7 mile south of its former location in the town center. Lee is a licensed hair care professional who has been in the business for 27 years, and has been proprietor of Visible Changes for 22. Her new location provides more space and off-road parking. She offers full service family hair care, manicures, pedicures, ear piercings, facials and facial waxing, perms, hair color and styles for special occasions. Regular business hours are Tuesday through Friday. Walk-ins are welcome during those times. Evenings and Saturdays are by appointment only. (392-1211) Paula said she is grateful to all who helped her relocate.

Isn't it nice to have a nice relaxing rainy day now and again and again?

Perhaps by now the weather has cleared up, but we surely wouldn't want to bet on it. Torrential downpours last Saturday caused washouts and road closures throughout the area. The South Rumford Road was closed after the bridge that crosses Thurston Brook was washed away. Emergency officials had a tough time fighting a house fire at Rumford Center while the Andover road around them was washing away as the storm raged.

A bear was seen crossing the Howard Pond Road traveling toward Mt. Dimmock last week and then reports of bear visits to birdfeeders and trash bins along Main Street, Howard Pond Road and Baby Brook Lane soon increased.

Ray Taylor from Tucson,

Ariz., and his daughter, Jennifer Krecklow from Cleveland, Tenn., have arrived at the Grand Heap and Wisham cottages at Howard Pond. Barb and Irv Robinson were at Rocky Retreat over the weekend. Claudia and Angelo Nardone and family have arrived at the Triple J cottage.

Gardner Roberts Memorial Library has a sampling of books at the Hanover Town Office. Recently a grandpa came in with his granddaughter and had to wait in line for service. Thinking the little girl should take a nap, Grandpa picked up a children's book and began reading it to his granddaughter. Well, she didn't take a nap but you should have seen the office staff person!

Unlike most all the other town offices in Maine that are closing Friday, June 3, the Hanover Town Office will be open until noon. We truly hope everyone has a safe and happy Independence Day. It is my favorite holiday.

Recently staying with Donna and Clem Worcester have been Brian and Sara Worcester and children, Kaylynn, Shawnee and Makala.

Last week we neglected to tell you about the upcoming turkey dinner at the Rumford Grange last Sunday. We can report that the supper was a great success with the dining room being filled three times.

A public hearing took place at the Hanover Town House on Tuesday, June 23, to discuss the proposed Shoreland Zoning Ordinance for Hanover and the Floodplain Ordinance for Hanover. The meeting was at 5 p.m. A special Town Meeting convened at 6 p.m. Elected moderator was Norman K. Ferguson Jr., and within five minutes the nine voters present approved the three articles relating to shoreland and floodplain ordinances.

Rain, rain, go away, never to return.

Enough already for several months to come and a bit more. At least Anita and I did not have all the rain in Bangor. There was some early Saturday morning and the rest was that ugly, cloudy look.

Anita and I left Friday morning to attend the Legion convention in Bangor. Arrived just in time for the opening ceremony and then on through rather boring examples of speeches. Of course, each elected official was there to say how he/she supports the veteran, but it is tough times. Friday's meeting recessed till Saturday morning. On Saturday morning we did the usual voting for elected positions in State Department level. The meeting convened and went on with the presentations of some well-deserved awards for heroism and service in the Firefighter, Law Enforcement, and EMT fields. And then it was on to the usual awards within the Legion.

The day dragged on until the voting on several actions needed to be taken within the Legion. After spirited discussion and much growling, the voting was done. There was some applauding and some

by Rockie Graham

It is Tuesday and they say it will stop raining today, at least for the day.

That is, until it gets hot and we have thunderstorms or showers. Sounds like June will go out the same way it has been all month long - raining. In any case, our garden seems happy, or most of it does. Many of the corn seeds rotted and now we are replanting. The greens are very happy. Usually we lose some of them due to the heat.

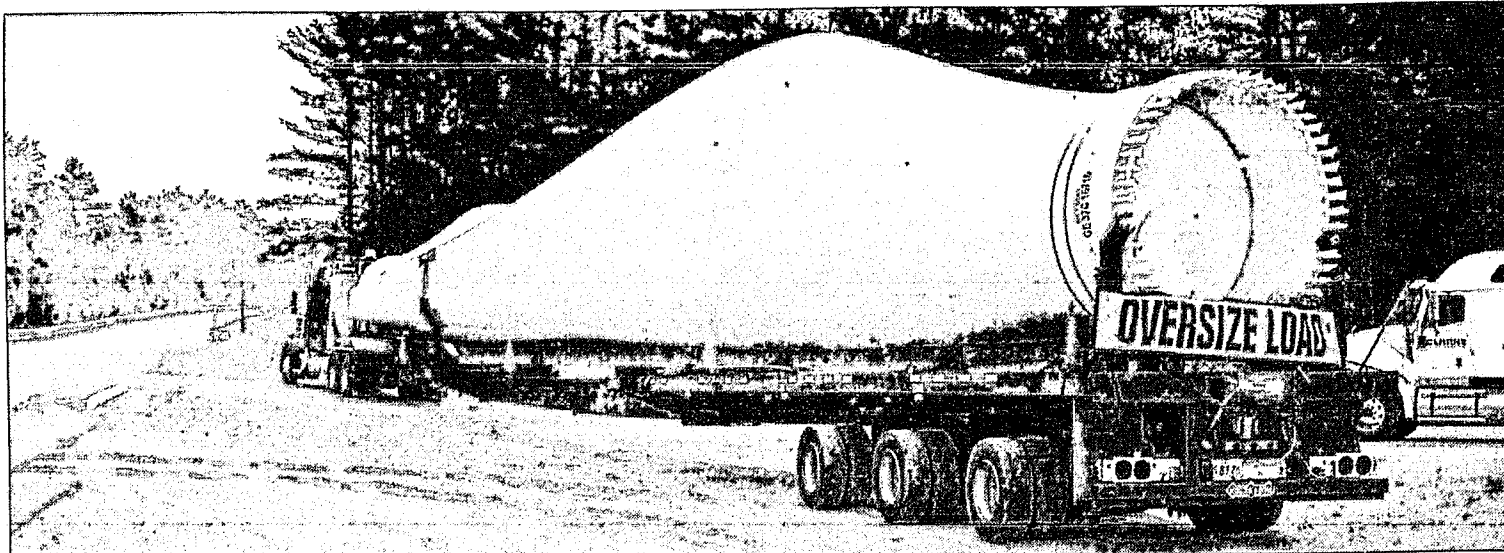

July 4th is coming. That is always a favorite holiday. Being on Saturday, David will have to work. If I can, I will also, but I am not sure my legs or my finger will allow it. I will have to play it by ear. For now, I am staying busy and trying to walk enough so I can go back to work. At least I can type better. My finger is broken, but the rest of my hand is back to normal.

Saturday, July 4th at Wilkins House starts the summer breakfasts. The breakfast cost; $6 for adults, $3 for ages 5-10, free under 5. Breakfast is from 7:30 a.m. - 10 a.m. and includes scrambled eggs, pancakes, sausages, bacon, homemade muffins, donut holes, orange juice and coffee.

July 4th is also the day of parades. Locally, the Waterford Parade starts at the school and proceeds from there.

July 4th is also the book sale at the Waterford Library. It is from 8 a.m. to noon. Library will be open at the time.

July 4th is the Bethel Art Fair and Bethel Historical Society annual event. The art fair will be on the Bethel Common. In addition, there will be a community picnic at the Dr. Moses Mason House. There will be a speaker, presentation of colors and a concert by the Portland Brass Quintet. Fireworks will be at the Bethel Inn Golf Course at dusk. If it rains, the picnic will be held at the Middle Intervale Meeting House FMI call 1-800-442-5826.

July 6th in Waterford the Socrates Café will meet at the Waterford Library from 6:30-8:30 p.m. The theme for this discussion group for this month is "Should We Trust the Media?" FMI call 583-6957.

Don't forget that next weekend, the 11th of July, is the Norway Art Fair and Summer Festival. The Mountain Poets will be hosting Poets On the Porch at the Norway Library, again. Anyone interested in reading should contact Lisa Moore at 743-9808 or m3d@megalink.net. Should be a fun day.

Summer has begun, even if the weather does not cooperate. There are lots of fairs and events. Anyone wanting me to put your news in this column, please call me at 743-0583. In any case, have a great 4th.

From Bethel Historical Society's Regional History Center

The 17th annual community picnic featuring a two hour concert by the Portland Brass Quintet will be held at noon on July 4 on the grounds of the Dr. Moses Mason House.

If the weather is rainy, the community picnic will be held at the Middle Intervale Meeting House on Intervale Road. The Quartet will be adding another member to the quintet this year with a percussionist from the Portland Symphony making an appearance at this year's performance.

The concert is free, but contributions are always welcomed to support this and other summer activities. To date gifts have been received from the following: Bessie M. Bennett, Bethel; Jane W. Hosterman, West Bethel; Nancy H. Mercer, Bethel; Eric and Lucia Schwarz, Bethel; Virginia Cole, Bethel; David Kristol and

Marjorie Brandriss, Summit, N.J.; Jack and Lucy Nordahl, Bethel; Norman and Joan Putnam, Bryant Pond; Janet Stowell, Bethel; Edna York, Bethel; Colwyn F. Haskell, Bethel; Walter and Carol Hatch, Bethel; Christine B. Otten, Brookline, Mass.; Marvin and Tineke Ouwinga, Bethel; Thomas H. Mitchell, Culver City, Calif.; William Andrews, Newry; Hi and Mary Lou Berry, Newry; Leland R. Brown, Tavares, Fla.; Burt deFrees, Rumford; William Kieffer, III and James May, Boston, Mass.; Mundt-Allen Post 81, American Legion, Bethel; Carolyn Nygren, St. Petersburg, Fla.; James and Lucia Owen, Stoneham; Jean K. Owen, Bethel, Bob and Nancy Chadbourne, Bethel; Mike and Lorrie Hoeh, Albany Township; Charles and Frances Richmond, Simi Valley, Calif.; Richard and Sally Taylor, Bethel; Alden and Mabel Kennett, Bethel; Carol Nielson, Bethel; Mary Eichel, Bethel; Sue and Linc Fiske, Bethel; Rose Mary McLean, Bryant Pond; James and Julie Bennett, West Paris; Henry and Patricia Stewart, Bryant Pond; the Helen and John Kubach Trust; Stan Howe, Bethel; Rebecca Kendall, Bethel; Lynne and Bud Kulik, Bethel; Jim and Linda Macgregor, Hanover; Richard C. Valentine, Bethel. Much appreciation is expressed to all of the above for their generosity. Those wishing to support these events can still make tax deductible donations in any amount and send them to the Society at P.O. Box 12, Bethel, Maine 04217. Contributions can also be made online by going to the Society's website www.bethelhistorical.org

Since this picnic and concert will be held during the annual Bethel Art Fair, the Society will hold a silent auction of four paintings by Society longtime member, Helen Morton, who died earlier this year.

Her family has presented four of her paintings to the Society to be auctioned off at this year's event. Those wishing to bid on these paintings can view them at the Society's O'Neil Robinson House. Bidding will continue until 4 p.m. on July 4.

A well-known and accomplished artist for many years in Western Maine, Mrs. Morton was also a guide in the Society's Dr. Moses House for over 30 years and a dedicated volunteer who was honored in 1991 with the Society's Marjorie MacArthur Noll Volunteer Service Award.

From

Oxford County Republicans

I would like to thank everyone who helped make the Oxford County Republican Yard Sale on June 13th a huge success. A special thank-you goes out to all who donated goods for the sale and a very, very special thank-you to George and Thelma Hooper for making their picture-perfect farm in Bryant Pond available for the event.

The weather leading up to and immediately following the yard sale was questionable, but that didn't dampen the spirit of the volunteers who helped sort, price, set up, and sell all of the great "stuff" that was donated. I deeply appreciate the time and effort put into the event by Pilar Bates, Loretta Mikols, George and Thelma Hooper, Lally Faulkner, Lynn Hamper, Paula Smith, Bill Seames, Judy Bennett, Nom and Joan Putnam, Ruth Feeney, and Arlan and Ellie Jordrey. If I have forgotten anyone, please accept my apology and know that I am equally grateful for your help.

Of course, I would be remiss if I did not thank everyone who stopped by to purchase some of the great items we had to sell. Due to your support and generosity, we are planning to make the yard sale an annual event.

The next Oxford County Republican Committee Meeting is Tuesday, July 14 at 5:30 p.m. at Stan Howe's home, 18 Broad Street, Bethel. Special guest speaker is Jason Levesque, 2010 Republican candidate for the 2nd US Congressional District.

From

Waterford World's Fair

Waterford World's Fair, July 17 to 19. This agricultural community event became known as the World's Fair around 1900. Through the years the World's Fair has seen many acts, displays, demonstrations, livestock contests and people selling their wares.

In 2007, Waterford World's Fair was voted Most Improved Small Agricultural Fair in the state of Maine. This year the World's Fair Association continues to add new activities and events to the fair. The variety of musical entertainment is sure to be enjoyed by all. There will be valuable information at the small farm workshops held daily. Like in the earlier years of the fair, there will be farmers competing with their livestock in a variety of contests.

Contests of the more recent times will find ladies throwing skillet, men working up a sweat in the couch potato and hee-man contests. The antique tractor-pull is returning to the World's Fair this year, reminding us of years gone by.

There will be plenty for the kids to do. There will be crafts to make, contests to enter and games to play.

LEGION AUX PRESENTS CHECK—On June 18 four members of the American Legion Auxiliary Unit #68 in Locke Mills presented a check to the Board Chairman of the Shriners Hospital for Children in Boston. Auxiliary president for 2008/2009 Jamie Hastings chose the Shriners Hospital as her special project. The unit was able to raise $2500 and members were invited to present the donation at the June Board of Directors meeting. Attending members were Hazel Cole, Carolyn Johnson, Jamie Hastings, and Anita Hakala. The work that goes into caring for the patients at the Shriners Burn Center in Boston is something that Jamie knows about first hand. In January 1999, Jamie was admitted to the Center with third degree burns on both hands. Thanks to the latest research, outstanding staff and dedicated follow up care at the hospital Jamie was able to return home before her 18th birthday. Shriners Hospital for Children-Boston cares for people from all over the world and this is done on a budget made up of 90 percent donations. A.L.A. Unit #68 is going to continue to support the SHC-Boston by collecting tabs from cans and donating them to the Shriners who in turn recycle them and use the money to improve the lives of the children staying in the hospital. Any tabs collected can be dropped off at the Legion Post #68 in Locke Mills or call Jamie at 674-2540.

White Mountain National Forest

The White Mountain National Forest has received funding for forest roads maintenance and signage under the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act (ARRA).

"Economic recovery funding will be used for reconstruction of the Patte Mill Road in Oxford County, Maine," said Forest Supervisor Tom Wagner. "This road maintenance project will allow us to improve the road condition and water quality, and increase user safety."

Funding by the American Recovery and Reinvestment

Act (ARRA) for roads maintenance and decommissioning and associated watershed restoration was first announced by U. S. Department of Agriculture Secretary Tom Vilsack on June 2, 2009. The 106 projects, funded at more than $228 million, are located on Forest Service land in 31 states.

In his announcement earlier this month, Vilsack stated, "These road maintenance projects will provide for public health and safety, resource protection, and access to lands in the National Forests." Vilsack added, "The rehabilitation of roads will improve water quality by reducing sediment in nearby streams and help to restore natural resources and habitat for fish in areas impacted by deterioration and erosion of road surfaces."

The White Mountain National Forest also received $250,000 for a Forest-wide sign project to improve the signage for roads and trails, providing enhanced visitor information and motor vehicle safety. The work will be completed through a combination of hiring temporary crews and contracting with local companies.

The Forest Service manages almost 370,000 miles of roads and 143,000 miles of trails on the 193 million acres of national forests and grasslands across the country. Forest Service roads provide Americans access to these public lands for their livelihoods, daily activities, and enjoyment.

Jerry K's Korner on the Market! (soon to be syndicated)
So Annie, as you know I have been madly in LOVE with you from the start... XOXOXO
Oh Jerry, you were a mere 3 months out of the womb when we first met. I am sure it was just "puppy love" I realize you are impressed by my engaging and worldly ways. After all, I will soon be celebrating 4 sophisticated years in this world, while you are merely turning 2 years of age. Too bad I am Canine, rather than Cougar, as in the latter case I might consider your ovations! As it stands, what with me wintering in Florida and golfing most of the summer at my Country Club, and as amusing as it is undeniably find you, my sweet young friend, this crazy thing between us would inevitably lack legs! Annie, I disagree wholeheartedly (GRRR!), but moving on... I want our Readers to explore a strong, feminine perspective on the current real estate market...so, I inquire, "WHAT'S UP?"
Well Jerry, I feel we need patience regarding our societal and worldwide fiscal matters and being a nurturing woman, a trait I have cultivated from my Mommy, I see only good things to eventually come, while wonderful opportunities emerge every day in our current marketplace.
Personally, Jerry, I always have my eyes on a new dog house, whether for vacation usage for my MOM and me or that all important investment kennel! After all, The Sleepy Unimformed Dog Misses The Ball!!!
Oh Shucks, Annie, Where Do You Get These Metaphors, Anyway?!! XOXOXO

Jerry Gets An Earful!!

BERTA A. OLSON

Berta was born March 9, 1932 in her home town Bethel. She crossed over June 11, 2009 at home with her loving family by her side.

At 15 years of age, Berta moved to Fla. for employment but returned to Maine a few years later. Berta married local boy, Sonny Bean and together were raising nine children. Berta was a loving mother who also shared her love with nieces and nephews and many others who came to her home. Through all her losses and hardships Berta had infinite love. She touched everyone with her humanity and deeply spirited soul. Besides the love for her own children, grandchildren and relatives, Berta loved traveling, lawn-sailing, good food, and her spoiled rotten pets.

Berta is predeceased by her parents, Ola and Grace Olson, her brothers, Siggy and Buddy, three of her own children, her daughter, Kim, her son, Peter, along with his twin daughters and her daughter, Leslie, son-in-law, Randy and Leslie's boys, Bronson and Brock. Also three special nephews and many aunts and uncles.

Berta was survived by her sisters, Joy Nelson and Viola Waite and brother-in-law, Edwin Waite. Berta is also survived by six children, her oldest child, Linda, Neal and his wife, Cindy, Kevin and his wife, Kris, Lorna and her husband, John, Mark and his wife, Linda and her youngest child, Marlene. Berta is survived by 10 grandchildren, 10 great grandchildren and 2 great great grandchildren. Regretfully, Berta didn't get to spend as much time as she would have liked with many of them.

Berta was the epitome of love. She has loved and touched many people's hearts and has equally felt our love.

JOY NELSON

Joy (Olson) Nelson, 74, died June 25 at Norway Rehabilitation Center after a courageous battle with ovarian cancer.

She was born in East Bethel on May 12, 1935 to Ola and Grace Olson. She attended local schools. She worked hard her entire life and was employed at Bath Iron Works and the former Marcotte Chevrolet. She enjoyed life to its fullest. Her love of travel took her to many places and she never tired of just packing up and going somewhere. She enjoyed wintering in Florida and was fortunate to spend her last winter there.

Joy was an avid outdoors woman who earned the nickname 'Annie Oakley' during her younger years. She loved to fish with her sons and was always the happiest when she was in the great outdoors. Joy's love of nature also showed in her beautiful flower gardens. She enjoyed collecting antiques and also liked stops at garage sales picking up something for one of her sisters, children, grandchildren, or friends. She was always helping others, and her heartfelt generosity was felt by many.

She will be sadly missed by her children, Debbie Martin and husband Michael of Bethel, Lisa Smith of Bethel, Terry Dooen of Littleton, Mass., Bruce Dooen and wife Lindy of Georgetown, Maine, Andy Dooen and partner Lori of Litchfield; her grandchildren, Michelle Delulio of Lisbon Falls, Michelle Delulio of Bethel, Derek Dooen of Lewiston, Anthony Delulio of Peru, Kaylee Smith of Bethel and Jacob Dooen of Litchfield; three great-grandchildren, Seth and Riley Leeman of Lisbon Falls, and Brian Delulio of Bethel; her loving sister Vi Waite and husband Ed of Mexico, Maine; her beloved nieces and nephews, and many dear friends.

She was predeceased by her father and mother, Ola and Grace Olson of Bethel; her loving sister Berta Olson of Bethel; brothers Buddy and Sigmond Olson; her grandson, Cody Smith of Bethel. Family and friends will have a gathering at a later date. In lieu of flowers, please support your local cancer foundation in Joy's memory.

Arrangements under the direction of Oxford Hills Funeral Services, 1037 Main Street/Route 26, Oxford, Maine. Online condolences may be expressed to the family at www.oxfordhillsfuneralservices.com.

RAYMOND A. BROWN

Raymond "Rayzor" Arthur Brown, 66, died June 26, 2009 at Maine Medical Center, Portland, from head injuries sustained while exercising a racehorse — living life to the fullest.

He was born in Berlin, N.H., on Aug. 21, 1942 to Vernon and Marguerite (Deegan) Brown. Ray graduated from Norway High School in 1961 and from Bliss College in 1963. His first job after college was shipping at Francine Shoe.

Brown was drafted into the U.S. Army in 1971. He earned many awards from his service in Vietnam including honor graduate of the 101st Screaming Eagles, Class 394 and a purple heart for injuries sustained while serving his country. He was discharged on July 1, 1973. Once home, he joined the American Legion Stone Smart Post 82 where both he and his father served as Commander and from which he received several certificates of appreciation. He was also a member of the Veterans of Foreign Affairs.

Ray married Mary Ann Perham, mother of two daughters, on Aug. 26, 1972. He always considered the girls as his own.

After the service Ray worked at Paris Farmer's Union for one year, then Diamond International until it closed 13 years later. He continued to work in the housing/building industry, except for one year working for Bancroft Contracting at their Berlin site, until 1999 when he was determined 100 percent disabled by the V.A.

He was a member of Stone Smart Post 82 of Norway, the Norway Fish & Game Club, Norway-Paris Kiwanis and was a Director of the Paris Hill Country Club. He was a member of the area's first technical school board and at one time was the West Paris representative on the Board of Directors of SAD 17.

He had a passion for American Legion Baseball and was the area Commissioner after Fred McLaughlin until he was no longer able to because of health problems. Needless to say he was an avid fan of the Red Sox, Patriots and Celtics.

Town & Country New Year's Eve parties were organized by Ray for family and friends for many years, along with "watching the fireworks parties" at the races, Lobster Feeds at the farm, and any other excuse to get together. He was the social planner and life of the party.

Ray Brown's sense of humor was notorious over the years, from entertaining nurses at the VA hospital in Togus to keeping a JOKES folder in his file cabinet. He wanted everyone to feel good and laugh hard. In spite of all his medical problems stemming from service injuries he remained devoutly patriotic, unjaded, and positive his entire life. His enthusiasm was contagious. He was one in a million!

Ray is survived by his wife; daughter, Debi Irons and her sons, Alex Waite and Phoenix McLaughlin; daughter and son-in-law, Nancy and Jay Morrisette and their three daughters Courtney and Morgan McClean, Chocorua Morrisette, and son Wade Morrisette and his wife Michelle and their son Max; a sister, Peggy Heikkinen and her partner Alan Hazelton; nephew, Mike Heikkinen and his daughter Baylee; a beloved Aunt Genice Edwards, "sons" Mike MacGregor, Glenn Henderson, Dennis Fournier, and Rick McAlister; "grandsons" Raymond MacGregor and Chris Jennings; and a very special family friend, Winnie Clark. He also leaves several brothers-in-law and sisters-in-law; many nieces, nephews and cousins; along with more friends than one can count.

Funeral Services will be held on Thursday, July 2, at 1 p.m. at the First Congregational Church in South Paris, with the Rev. Donald Mayberry officiating. Reception will follow downstairs in the church. Interment will take place at the Wayside Cemetery in West Paris with military honors being provided by the United States Army. In lieu of flowers friends are welcomed to make a donation in Ray's memory to the Harold C. Perham Grandstand Fund, Town of West Paris, PO Box 247, West Paris, ME 04289. Online condolences may be expressed to the family at www.oxfordhillsfuneralservices.com.
